

Disbarred Personal Injury Attorney Ross Annenberg Indicted for Larceny and Conspiracy

Summary: A former Worcester attorney has been indicted on charges of uttering, conspiracy and larceny.

A Worcester County grand jury indicted a former personal injury lawyer on a range of charges. Ross A. Annenberg, 53, was indicted for larceny, uttering, and conspiracy for a scheme running between 2010 and 2013.

The jury handed down the indictment for 10 counts of larceny of more than $205 by a single scheme, two counts of uttering a forged document and a single count of conspiring to commit larceny, according to Telegram.com. Annenberg was already disbarred at the time of the indictment.

Annenberg was disbarred in 2015 when he admitted to misusing client funds. He was charged with stealing from his former employer, Worcester law firm Abigail Williams & Associates. The funds in question were $50,000 in client funds that were misused and checks he cashed in 2012 and 2013 for $6,622 for referral fees that were not for him.

Also indicted was suspended lawyer Michael Levin, 66. Levin had his license suspended in 2017 for two years for admitting to letting Annenberg deposit roughly $153,000 in his Interest on Lawyers Trust Accounts and then taking a fee after each deposit. His indictment includes two counts of receiving stolen property and one count of conspiring with Annenberg to commit larceny.

Listed in the indictment as a victim is law firm attorney Ms. Williams. She is the victim of the 10 larceny indictments. Some of his former clients are also listed as victims in the indictment.

The two attorneys will be indicted at a later date in Worcester Superior Court.
