An investment banker decides she needs in-house counsel, so she interviews a young lawyer.

"Mr. Peterson," she says, "Would you say you're honest?"

"Honest?" replies Peterson.

"Let me tell you something about honesty. My father lent me $85,000 for my education, and I paid back every penny the minute I tried my first case."

"Impressive. And what sort of case was that?"

"Dad sued me for the money."
