

Greenberg Traurig's Expansion in Charlotte: Welcomes Experienced Corporate Lawyer Matthew S. Davis as Of Counsel

Greenberg Traurig, a leading global law firm, recently expanded its Corporate Practice in Charlotte with the addition of Matthew S. Davis as of counsel. With this expansion, the firm aims to provide its clients with the highest level of legal services across various industries.

Davis brings with him vast experience in advising public and privately held companies on mergers and acquisitions, private equity transactions, and general corporate matters. Prior to joining Greenberg Traurig, he served as a director and assistant general counsel at Barings LLC, a global investment management firm. He gained expertise coordinating among inside and outside counsel and investment team members while working with business principals on complex matters.

"Matthew understands the needs of our clients from their point of view and can offer a holistic approach to provide them with the highest level of service," said Brian J. Bailey, managing shareholder of Greenberg Traurig's Charlotte office.

Davis has broad experience in private practice and in-house, assisting private equity clients and their portfolio companies in various matters related to acquisitions, divestitures, organizational structure and governance, and commercial contracts. With his experience, Greenberg Traurig's corporate capabilities will be further enhanced.

"I am excited to return to private practice at Greenberg Traurig and look forward to the opportunity to utilize the firm's global reach and vast resources to grow my practice across clients and industries," Davis said.
