

Foley & Lardner Hires 3 More Lawyers

Foley & Lardner, which announced three hires earlier this month, has brought on three more lawyers in New York.

Barry Mandel joins from Merrill Lynch as a partner in securities enforcement & litigation and white-collar defense. He was co-head of global litigation, employment, and regulatory affairs at the global financial services firm.

Howard Margulis and Ellen Wolchek, both from Troutman Sanders, join Foley's finance practice and energy industry team. Margulis joins as partner, and Wolchek as senior counsel.

Foley & Lardner LLP is an international general practice law firm started in 1842 in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It employs 1,000 attorneys, and is the 24th largest firm in the United States.